Explanation:

1. When applying for accommodation, the accommodation deposit should be paid together with the accommodation fee. It may not be paid separately.
2. For other electrical appliances (e.g., electricity usage for small refrigerators), please refer to the "Regulations for the Use of Electrical Appliances in National Dong Hwa University Student Dormitories."
3. During the period of staying in the dormitory (including short-term accommodation during winter and summer vacations), you should abide by the regulations, management measures and living conventions of the student dormitory. If there is any damage to public property, you should compensate according to the price and take full responsibility for your actions.
4. During winter and summer vacations, those applying for short-term stays will be arranged to stay in the dormitories for bachelor. For group short-term stays, a deposit of $2,000NTD will be collected for each application unit (activity). After the dormitory manager and the Office of Student Affairs has inspected and confirmed the accuracy by the accommodation deadline, the full deposit will be refunded within seven days.
5. When moving into the dormitory, please complete the personal dormitory property inventory and self-check the condition of the public property according to the inventory list of the dormitory. When applying to move out, it is also necessary to pass the property inventory and cleaning inspection before the move-out process can be completed.
